Plot to V-Bomb U. S., Revealed

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 12 (AP)—The newspaper Aftonbladet quoted an unnamed British lieutenant today as saying that the Swedish engineer, Nils Werner Larsson, on trial for delivering military secrets to both Germany and the Allies, held the key to the whole series of Nazi vengeance weapons from V-1 to V-10. The V-10, which the Germans expected to hurl across the Atlantic in 35 minutes to bombard the United States, was in blueprint stage when Germany surrendered.

The newspaper said plans for the V-10 reached the United States seven weeks ago and formed the basis for Gen. Henry H. Arnold's reference to "space ships" in his report yesterday to the U. S. Secretary of War.

Arnold envisaged space ships traveling 3000 miles an hour "operating outside the earth's atmosphere." He added:

"The design of such a ship is all but practicable today; research will unquestionably bring it into being within the foreseeable future."

Larsson is charged specifically with offering German military secrets to Allied military representatives in Sweden and of delivering an improved Swedish machine pistol to the Germans, presumably to create confidence in him.

The newspaper quoted the lieutenant, who recently visited Sweden from Hamburg, as saying Larsson had great technical knowledge and had worked in V weapon laboratories in Peenemuende in 1943.

Larsson left Sweden in 1945 for Germany and assisted German discoverers and builders of the V weapons, the newspaper said. After the German collapse, Larsson was said to have had freedom of movement in Germany. The British officer was reported to have met Larsson in an officers' barracks in Hamburg a few weeks ago.

The Briton was quoted as saying the entire German staff used in Peenemuende to develop V weapons—about 90 men in all—was transferred to the United States seven weeks ago.

Larsson was arrested by the Swedes at the border, apparently while en route home from Germany.

China Eases Red Terms for Peace

CHUNGKING, Nov. 12 (INS)—Sweeping concessions by the Central government designed to end the undeclared "civil war" in China were announced today by a Communist spokesman.

The concessions concern the agenda of the interparty political consultative council and came as a result of the Democratic League's action in favoring that body's entry into the Communist-Central government negotiations. The central government agreed to cessation of the civil war, the Communist spokesman said, adding Chungking officials also agreed to reorganization and nationalization of the army and that administration of Communist-held areas can be worked out.

Extra Points

NEHALEM, Ore., Nov. 12 (AP)—Com. E. D. Flaherty's family was discussing father's shortage of points for Navy discharge. It gave Flaherty's children an idea to help get him home.

It looked pretty simple to them. They wrote his commanding officer enclosing ration stamps worth 20 points.

British Tanks Turn Back Fanatical Indonesians

By LEIF ERICKSON

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 12 (AP)—British Indian forces gained control of virtually all of Soerabaja today, the Netherlands new agency Aneta said, as British tank crews turned back fanatical charges by Indonesian Nationalists.

LEAVES PACIFIC—While a Marine Band plays Aloha, Marine Sgt. Albina Michalowski, of East Bridgewater, prepares to leave Hawaii for the United States and discharge. An impressive ceremony honored 50 women Marines prior to their departure.

Starting for Home

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12 (AP)—Mass movement of China-Burma-India veterans to the United States started here today with departure of the attack-transport Hocking with 1100 Army enlisted men, 50 Army officers, 416 Navy enlisted men and 38 naval officers.

Many Indonesians were killed in the charges, the Dutch dispatch said. There still was no indication, however, the natives were preparing to give up the fight.

British headquarters ordered a curfew at the big Java naval base from 10 p. m. to 4:30 a. m. The British said their artillery had silenced Indonesian-manned Japanese tanks in the city.

Fighting also broke out last night in Tandjoengpriok, the port of Batavia, when Indonesian bands attempted to attack warehouses, the British said.

While British Indian forces pressed their house-to-house assault in Soerabaja, Foreign Minister Soebardjo pleaded for Soviet intervention on behalf of his unrecognized Indonesian republic. "It is apparent now Britain is paving the way for the reimposition of Dutch rule in Indonesia," Soebardjo said in a radio appeal to Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov.

The Indonesian leader asked that the Russians aid in winning "justice from the world" for the Indonesians. He promised the Indonesians would assist Allied forces in disarming and evacuating Java-based Japanese forces. "By the very principle of independence we do not like foreign troops on Indonesian soil," Soebardjo told the Soviet foreign commissar. He added, however, that "the presence of British troops is tolerable for a certain time."

Three top-ranking Japanese generals were placed under arrest by British authorities on charges of violating Allied surrender orders by turning tanks, armored

CORDELL HULL Wins 1945 Nobel Peace Prize

1945 Nobel Prize to Cordell Hull

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Nobel peace prize for 1945 has been awarded to former U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the Norwegian government information office in London announced today.

As Secretary of State, Hull laid the foundation for the San Francisco conference which drafted the United Nations charter. He was succeeded on Nov. 27, 1944, by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

Simultaneously it was announced the Nobel peace prize for 1944 has been conferred on the international committee of the Red Cross at Geneva, Switzerland, for its work among prisoners of war. It was the second time the Red Cross has received the award, the first being in 1917.

The 1944 and 1945 awards were made by the five-member committee of the Norwegian Parliament, as provided under the will of Dr. Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite.

This marked the first time the Nobel prize had been awarded since 1938. A Norwegian government spokesman in London said: "It is quite likely prize winners will subsequently be named, at least for the years 1942 and 1943."

The Nobel prize is awarded annually to the person or persons "who shall have most or best promoted the fraternity of nations and the abolishment or diminution of standing armies and the formation and extension of peace conferences."

Prove Yamashita Men Cannibals

By PAT ROBINSON

MANILA, Nov. 12 (INS)—Testimony charging Jap soldiers with cannibalism was entered for the first time today in the record of Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's war crimes trial.

Pictures were introduced showing mutilated victims of the cannibalism assertedly practiced on small children by the Japs.

In another development of the case, counsel for Yamashita filed a writ of habeas corpus with the Philippine supreme court in a not unexpected effort to free the former Jap Philippine commander from U. S. Army jurisdiction.

State Leaders Push Bid to Win World Capital

Gov. Tobin will fly to London shortly as head of a delegation of distinguished Bay Staters in the promotion of this state as the permanent home of the United Nations Organization, it was announced today.

Disclosure was made at a Hotel Statler luncheon of a group of the state's best known citizens, all of whom agreed that Massachusetts must act forcefully and swiftly if it is to compete with other American communities already in the race.

The names of those chosen to fly to London with the government are scheduled to be announced later today.

It was pointed out at the luncheon that San Francisco, Philadelphia and Chicago now have a head start on this State, with representatives already en route to London.

Among the leaders who gathered with the Governor today were the following: Bishop Henry Knox Sheriff, Mgr. Augustine F. Hickey, representing Abp. Cushing; President Karl Compton of M. I. T.; Gen. Elliott Cutler, Editor Alexander Brin, Philip Nichols of the State Board of Housing, Miss Elisabeth Herlihy, Cong. Edith N. Rogers, Cong. Thomas Lane, John Dowd, Thomas H. Buckley, state finance commission; Lt.-Gov. Robert Bradford, former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, Lisenpannister, William K. Jackson, president of the Chamber of Commerce; William Collins, Edwin D. Canham and Vice-President Orson Adams, Jr., of the First National Bank.

Atomic Talk Off to Tuesday

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (INS)—Conferences on the control of atomic energy among the chiefs of government of the United States, great Britain and Canada recessed today until Tuesday after a brief morning meeting between President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee.

The British leader left the White House in mid-morning, having been a guest there since his arrival Saturday from England. He will make his headquarters at the British embassy for the rest of his stay in Washington.

But at the British embassy it was said Attlee would spend the rest of the day composing the address he will make to the joint session of Congress tomorrow.

The conferences are scheduled to be resumed Tuesday, but no time was definitely arranged.

The White House also announced today a joint statement would be issued by the President and the prime ministers at the conclusion of the Washington conferences. It was assumed the three leaders could at that time make public a resume of their discussions.

There still was no American comment on reports from British sources Attlee had presented to President Truman a proposal for an international pooling of the atomic bomb and all secret weapons under the United Nations Security Council.

One hint, however, came from a White House official who said the talks of the three leaders Saturday and during their nine-hour cruise on the Potomac yesterday were informal and exploratory, seeking to set up a formal agenda for discussion this week.

The primary purpose of the meetings is to obtain a formula for control of the atomic bomb discovery.

The basic requirement of the Attlee plan as disclosed by British sources, is that any nation having access to the international pool cooperate fully with the United Nations.

The blunt inference was that this applies especially to Russia and France.

MOSCOW, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Soviet press made no reference today to the conferences on atomic power now under way in Washington.

MOM OF HEIRESS—The 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Henry Fonda, Frances Brokaw, is one of America's richest heiresses through the settlement of her grandfather's estate, it was reported by Louella Parsons, Boston American columnist today. Mother is the former Frances Seymour of Fairhaven.

Dixie Kiefer Dies With 5 in Navy Plane

BEACON, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—A high municipal official said that the body of Commodore Dixie Kiefer, Pacific war hero, had been identified as one of six men killed in the crash of a Navy plane on Mt. Beacon, three miles from here. The wrecked plane and the victims were found on the mountain-side early today, the official said.

Commodore Kiefer was widely known as Capt. "Dixie" of the documentary film, "Fighting Lady." At death he was commanding officer of the naval air station at Quonset, and had under his jurisdiction 29 naval air bases in New England.

The plane, a twin-engine bomber, crashed at noon yesterday while en route from Caldwell, N. J., to Quonset Point, R. I.

Boston Gives Gen. Ike Its Greatest Welcome

Gen. Dwight D. "Ike" Eisenhower came smiling through a perilous and thrill-packed landing at Squantum air base today to walk into one of the greatest ovations in Boston's history—a reception as tremendous as the city gave its YD heroes returning from World War I in 1919. Thousands braved drizzling rain and foggy, raw weather to line the highways and downtown streets for a glimpse of the trim Supreme Commander of the Allied forces in Europe and his infectious, elfin grin as the general's motorcade traveled by a circuitous route from Squantum to his quarters at Hotel Statler.

But that crowd was as nothing compared to the huge, cheering throng which gathered along downtown streets to roar an effusive welcome to Gen. "Ike" as he rode in the Armistice Day parade.

Estimated to number more than 1,000,000, they lined the streets four, five and seven deep all along the parade route, gathering rapidly in the brief while before the parade, even as the general and his wife were being feted as the city's guests at luncheon.

At the civic luncheon tendered him and Mrs. Eisenhower, where he was introduced simply as "Our Hero" by Mayor Kerrigan, Gen. Eisenhower voiced a terse and sincere plea for understanding and tolerance in the postwar world.

"That's been the American way," he said, "ever since the Pilgrim fathers landed on Plymouth Rock. And that is why we are the great nation that we are."

The general and his wife were presented with a sterling silver coffee set and Mrs. Eisenhower with a bouquet of roses in commemoration of their visit to Boston, then were accorded a five-minute ovation by the crowd.

Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower later visited the hotel ballroom where Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul of Shrewsbury, commander of the famed YD during its action in Europe last year, was the honor guest at a luncheon of the Crosscup-Fishon post, A. L. Here, too, Gen. Eisenhower was almost overwhelmed at the roar of spontaneous joy which greeted his appearance.

Mrs. Eisenhower and I are ever so happy to be with you," he said. "We hope to come back to Boston to see you all some day. You YD men could talk all afternoon with Gen. Paul. Only make him tell you what the YD did when it went into the Saar—into the muck and blood and rain! But that's what we Americans can do, isn't it?"

Delayed for more than a half-hour, the parade got under way at 2:33 p. m. with Gen. Ike on top of the back seat of the first car, acknowledging cheers of the hundreds of thousands.

His wife sat on one side and Gov. Tobin on the other while Mayor Kerrigan and Sen. Walsh were in the tonneau and Col. James Stack, the general's aide, rode in front. Mrs. Tobin rode in the second car with friends.

Thousands lining the parade route cheered wildly for the general as the line of march wound down Commonwealth ave. to Arlington st., to Boylston st., to Tremont st., to Temple pl., to Washington st., to School st., past the City Hall reviewing stand to Beacon st. and the State House.

Here Gen. Eisenhower left his car and with Gov. Tobin entered the reviewing stand and saluted the marchers as they paraded past.

The general, after the review, was escorted back to the hotel and again, all along the route, thousands were lined.

Few among the cheering thousands knew they had narrowly missed a chance to see the general and that closing down of the weather all along the coastline had almost caused him to miss taking part in the city's Armistice Day program.

Only the uncanny skill of the general's own pilot, Capt. Charles Bennett of Florida, enabled the "Sunflower II," the huge C-54 Skymaster named in honor of Eisenhower's home state of Kansas, to come rolling safely to a landing.

Twice Bennett had failed in passes at the runway under a dangerously low ceiling of less than 400 feet, but he finally came roaring in downwind from the south-east, piercing through the fog and skimming the runway in a perfect landing.

As the plane taxied along, Gen. Eisenhower appeared at a window and his face lighted in his school-boy smile as he glimpsed his wife, waving amid the throng of welcomers. He waved joyfully and hurried to the plane door.

Immediately after the plane halted he clambered down the gangway, his head lowered because of its steepness. He looked forward and his face lighted again with his famous grin as he beheld his wife immediately in front of him.

"Hi," he shouted happily as he seized her in a huge bear hug, kissing her and lifting her off the ground.

Then he turned and waved to the crowd, many of them Navy and Marine pilots of the Squantum base, before Mrs. Eisenhower introduced him to Governor Tobin and Mayor Kerrigan.

Photographer clustered around, snapped pictures of the group and, when someone yelled, "Kiss her, Ike!" he laughed and said:

"You just take your pictures. I'll take care of my business."

William Phillips, roving ambassador who served as Gen. Eisenhower's political adviser in Europe, pressed forward and greeted him with a cheery "Hello, Ike!" "What in the world are you do-

Wife Dons Gem Ike Gave Her

By PAULINE WARREN

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower is looking forward to this evening's State Dinner honoring her husband with a special reason all her own. It will be the first opportunity she has had to wear the general's latest gift to her—a magnificent diamond pin.

The slim, gracious lady of the returning hero was the first to greet him as he stepped from the giant C-54 Skymaster at Squantum Naval Air Station. Breaking away from the official reception committee she rushed out to receive his hug and kiss at the gangway.

Then hand-in-hand she and the general walked toward the committee. Only twice did Mrs. Eisenhower let go of the general's hand: Once when he shook hands with Gov. Tobin and again when he responded to Mayor Kerrigan's clasp.

At the gate to the naval air station the general, on seeing the waiting crowds changed from Mayor Kerrigan's closed car to an open vehicle. Despite the cold drizzle then falling, Mrs. Eisenhower chose to ride with her husband as the motorcade sped towards Boston.

At the Hotel Statler, the 12th floor suite reserved for Gen. Eisenhower and his wife was filled with flowers. Throngs filled the corridors of the hotel hoping for a glimpse of the man who commanded the victorious Allied armies in Europe and his wife.

In talking with the press Mrs. Eisenhower disclosed that her

18 GIs in Ike's Plane for Capital

After refueling at Squantum, Gen. Eisenhower's C-54 transport plane took off at 1:42 this afternoon for Washington with 18 happy GIs the general brought home with him from Europe.

The group, who had their dinner on board the ship here, all are high-point veterans and include four Marine fliers, two sailors and 12 soldiers. They were "sweetie" it out" near Frankfurt, Germany, when they got the surprise invitation to fly home with their chief.

husband had radioed from his plane that he hoped to spend most of his time in the United States with her.

The general's wife said she wished to correct a report that "Ike" does not spill ashes on the rugs at home.

"I am sure he wouldn't like to be thought of as perfect," she said, "and he spills as much ashes as any other American husband."

Western stories and Western movies are two of the general's favorites, Mrs. Eisenhower said. In the line of food he favors corn on the cob, hominy and watermelon. "Basic American foods" he calls them, she disclosed.

At the luncheon held in the Statler, Mayor Kerrigan presented Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower with a sterling silver coffee set to commemorate their visit to Boston.

Solons Oppose Ruin Of German Industry

By FELIX COTTEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (INS)—The Colmer committee of the House warned that if the present policy of stripping German industries for reparations is continued "a considerable part of the German population will face death from slow starvation and disease. An alternative, the group added, would be for the United States to shoulder a heavy feeding and relief job to prevent actual starvation and for the Allies to maintain abnormally large occupation forces to suppress internal disorder.

Chiefs of Staff Blamed in Delay Of Gls' Return

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The walls of high-point GIs mounded around the world are reaching Washington in increasing volume.

A spokesman for the War Shipping Administration—which transports most of the troops—acknowledged today that the heat is getting hotter to bring home all men eligible for discharge.

But, he said, too many factors enter into the situation for an overnight solution.

First of all, this official, who said that his name need not be used, told a reporter that the War Shipping Administration merely follows orders from the joint chiefs of staff, picking up troops "when and where we're told." He insists the WSA is meeting all schedules of the joint chiefs of staff.

There was no comment from the joint chiefs, but an Army spokesman said a scarcity of seamen is a important factor in the troop movements.

Roughly 500,000 men a month are being brought home aboard Navy combat vessels, 200 Army ships and 470 operated by the War Shipping Administration.

The WSA vessels include 20 liners built for passenger trade and 450 cargo ships converted for troop carrying.

The agency also has under its control about 4000 other ships, most of them slow-moving Liberty. Occasionally one of these vessels brings back a handful of casual (unassigned) troops, but the joint chiefs have not directed that such ships be used for mass movement of troops.

If all goes according to schedule, the WSA hopes to be out of Europe by the end of January, and out of the Pacific by the end of June.

One GI in Japan In Connubial Bliss

TOKYO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Sgt. Russell Hannegan of Headquarters Co., 97th Infantry Div., believes he is the only enlisted Yank in Japan who has his wife with him.

His wife is W. O. (j.g.) Bessie Hannegan of the Army exchange purchasing office in Tokyo.

They met and were married at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., when both were sergeants. Both went overseas in February of this year. Hannegan to Europe and his wife to the Pacific.

Hannegan joined his wife when the 97th, only division to be redeployed from Europe to the Pacific, arrived in Yokohama.

tion forces to suppress internal disorder.

"If a 'hard peace' requires elimination of eight or 10 millions of Germans," the committee wryly observed, "it would be much more humane to eliminate them at once."

"The committee asked 'What incentive under this plan exists for Germany to turn to democratic ways?'"

In a special report on economic reconstruction in Europe, the committee took issue with Bernard M. Baruch, former Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, the Kilgore military affairs subcommittee of the Senate and others advocating complete demobilization of German industry.

The committee, which is headed by Rep. Colmer (D.) of Mississippi, also criticized the McNamara policy.

Appealing for a policy of "wisdom" in classifying individuals as Nazis, the committee said:

"If everyone is eliminated who had any connection with a movement that controlled Germany for 12 years, the result may well be anarchy and chaos."

Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio called on President Truman today to deal Congress in on the negotiations for a loan to Great Britain.

Taft's statement was made after the Colmer committee said that the United States should obtain specific concessions from both Russia and Britain in return for financial aid.

The Ohioan said the Administration was not following the program of consultation with Congress which was successfully working out the United Nations charter. He added:

"I think it would be wise for the President to discuss the proposed British loan with Congress before it is consummated. After all, Congress might not approve it. There's a lot of opposition."

Krupp III, Son May Go on Trial

NUERNBERG, Nov. 12 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson, United States prosecutor, requested the International Military Tribunal today to substitute Alfred Krupp, son of Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, as a defendant in the war crimes trials.

Jackson filed his motion because the elder Krupp, head of the huge German armaments and steel trust, is too ill and aged to appear for trial.

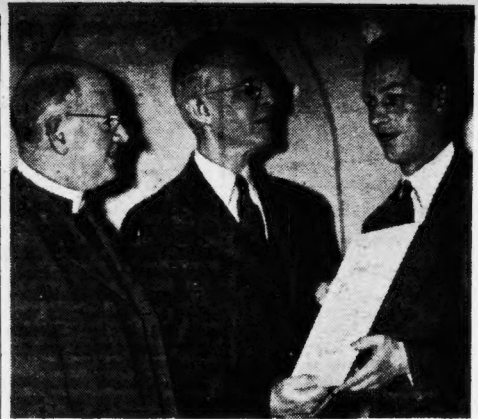

If Jackson's motion is granted, a postponement of 10 days to two weeks in the start of the historic trial is almost certain. The trial had been scheduled for Nov. 20.

The British prosecutor, Sir David Maxwell-Fyfe, filed a dissenting motion, and declared that Great Britain preferred to try the elder Krupp in absentia if necessary, because his name was a household word in the minds of the British public, which would resent postponement.

Hurricane Cough

CINCINNATI, Nov. 12 (AP)—The human cough is a big wind that can attain super-hurricane velocity and exert a blast force which, if prolonged, is sufficient to crack one or more of the cougher's ribs, Dr. Andrew L. Banyai of Marquette University Medical School, said today.

Velocity of air of the human cough as it leaves the throat has been measured at more than 245 miles an hour.

Heavy Fog Cancels All Hub Air Flights

A fog of near "pea soup" consistency draped itself over the eastern seaboard today and extended deeply inland, paralyzing air travel here with a 400-foot ceiling that caused airlines to cancel all flights from East Boston airport up to 4 p. m.

Officials at the airport said the fog was scheduled to lift late in the afternoon, with good flying weather due until 10 p. m., when it is expected to grow bad again.

In New York 5000 persons had been booked for Armistice Day flights and were forced to find other transportation.

The notable exception to the no-air-travel status was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, flying from Europe for his Armistice Day visit to Boston. His pilot chose not to take a chance with the wet gray blanket over the East Boston Airport, but landed the general on the Squantum Naval Air Base at 11:31, only 31 minutes after the schedule had called for him to arrive at East Boston.

Army officers at Grenier Field, N. H., reported "some planes" had arrived there last night en route to other points and would not proceed until the weather improved. One of the planes, it was said, was reportedly carrying seven Italians to Washington for questioning by the Department of Justice concerning the alleged broadcasts from Rome by Ezra Pound, the American poet, accused of being a Nazi propagandist.

In Washington all outward bound flights had been cancelled since 6 p. m. last night and no planes were landing there early this afternoon.

Heavy seas made the voyage uncomfortable, but the men praised the Army Special Services unit aboard, which brightened the long days by entertainment.

The 257th Ordnance Medium Maintenance Co., 111th Hospital and 886th Medical Collecting Co. were on the ship.

Slayer of Girl, Waiting Noose, Escapes Jail

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Nov. 12 (AP)—William Turner, 27, sentenced to be hanged Dec. 28 for slaying a 15-year-old high school girl, escaped from Preston County jail today several hours before he was to be transferred to the state prison at Moundsville.

Turner, convicted Oct. 31 for the fatal shooting of pretty Daria Dean Pratt in front of her parents' tavern near Newburg last July 31, escaped with Paul Henry Hahn, 21, of Tunnelton, Sheriff Hobart Spindler said. Hahn was under a 15 years sentence as a second offender.

Spindler said the two cellmates sawed a bar and made their way through four doors, via the jail office and kitchen, and fled in the sheriff's automobile.

The escape was not discovered until about 8 a. m.

Bus Strike End Seen in Parley

Hope for early settlement of the 12-day strike of Grayhound Bus Lines drivers and terminal employees was seen today as union leaders and management officials gathered in Philadelphia for a special meeting tomorrow.

Harold McManus of Boston, head of Local 1203, Amalgamated Ass'n of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, AFL, was summoned to the conference.

The local leader of some 400 union employees of the bus lines, said that the prospects of settling the strike, which was general east of the Mississippi appeared to be favorable.

Dr. Gaul to Play Organ at St. Paul's

Dr. Harvey Gaul, composer and director of music at Calvary Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh, for 35 years, has resigned and is coming as organist to Boston's St. Paul's Cathedral, it was announced today.

He will be associated here with the Rev. Dr. E. J. Van Etten, dean of St. Paul's and formerly rector at Calvary Church in Pittsburgh.

The colorful delegation, which included rabbis from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, was met at the entrance to the Senate chamber by a group of congressmen.

Senate President McKellar (D.) of Tennessee, told the delegation he would lay the petition before the Senate tomorrow.

"I am wholeheartedly and 100 per cent—even 1000 per cent—in favor of that part of the petition which asks that Palestine be set apart as a Jewish refuge," McKellar said.

Members of the New Zionist Organization of America, the rabbis demanded execution of President Truman's request for transfer of 100,000 European Jewish refugees to Palestine, repudiation of the 1939 British "White Paper," formation of a commission to create a Jewish homeland in Palestine, and release of Jewish patriots from British prison camps in Africa and the Near East.

A delegation of 10 rabbis was to be received at the White House by Matthew J. Connelly, President Truman's secretary. Connelly said the President's atomic energy discussions with Prime Minister Atlee and Premier Mackenzie King would prevent Mr. Truman from seeing the delegation.

Following the White House call the rabbis were to present their petition to Minister John Balfour at the British embassy.

Other members of the congressional group included Sens. Mead (D.) of New York, and Capper (R.) of Kansas, and Reps. McCormack (D.) of Massachusetts, House majority leader, and Celler, Delany and Rooney all Democrats of New York.

McCormack viewed the rabbis' request as a "challenge to mankind," and called for a "free and democratic Jewish commonwealth in Palestine."

Veda Ann Borg, former glamorous Boston model who rose to stardom in Hollywood, but whose beauty was marred in an auto accident until plastic surgery restored it, secretly obtained a divorce last week from Paul Y. Herrick, heir of the oil magnate and publisher. It was disclosed today. Severance of the marital tie was accomplished without a line of publicity, as was her secret marriage to John T. Herrick's son and their four years ago when they slipped down to Yuma, Ariz., for the ceremony.

It was to Louella O. Parsons, INS motion picture editor, that Veda revealed she had been obliged to choose between continuing her screen career and giving up Paul—and had chosen the latter course.

"Paul was overseas," Veda explained, "but when he returned we talked things over. He objected to my career. Both he and his family didn't want me in the movies. But I loved my work, so I decided the best thing was get a divorce. He was willing and that's all there was to it."

Tragedy visited Veda shortly after she had taken Hollywood by storm when she lost the facial beauty that had catapulted the Girl's High School graduate, daughter of the Fred Borgs of Huntington ave., into the model-

Sonja Is 'Very Fond' Of Van

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (INS)—Sonja Henie admitted today she is "very fond" of Van Johnson, and said both she and the current idol of the bobby soxers would be in Chicago at Christmas.

Miss Henie, who is divorcing Dan Topping, is in Chicago preparing for her ice show. Johnson, she said, plans to spend the holidays here.

She has known Johnson some time, casually, she said, but their first real meeting was in Hollywood about two and a half months ago, at a party.

"We got to talking," said the Norwegian skating actress, "and—well, we liked each other. I saw him frequently after that, up until three weeks ago, when I left Hollywood."

Since then, Miss Henie added, Johnson has "called me lots of times, so I guess he hasn't forgotten me."

She said she couldn't tell how "serious" a romance it is.

"Who knows," she asked, "what might happen to a romance when two people are separated so soon after they meet?"

Seeks FBI Facts On Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—A Republican member of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee said today FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and some of his G-men should be added to the 48-member witness list.

Public hearings by the joint Senate-House committee are scheduled to open Thursday.

Rep. Keefe (R.) of Wisconsin termed the witness list announced by Chairman Barkley "all right—as far as it goes," but added in an interview:

"The FBI was out at Hawaii doing investigating work prior to the Japanese attack. It had a good, live setup and knows a lot of things about which the public should be informed."

Keefe added that he and Rep. Gearhart (R.) of California have an appointment to see Hoover tomorrow.

MR. AND MRS. AUGUST BELMONT
He Seeks Reno Divorce From North Shore Socialite

Belmont Seeks to Divorce Former Betsy Saltonstall

Boston and North Shore social circles were stirred today over news that Lt. Com. August "Augie" Belmont, 4th, USNR, of New York, whose marriage June 15, 1931, to Elizabeth "Betsy" Lee Saltonstall of Boston was the elite event of the season, is in Reno seeking a divorce.

Also in Reno is Augie's beautiful sister, Bessie Morgan Belmont Timmerman, who is reported trying to beat her brother to the court in a divorce action against Louis F. Timmerman, New York banker and a Marine Corps captain in World War I.

There was speculation whether Betsy, daughter of John Y. Saltonstall of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, and Mrs. Henry H. Billings of New York, and a cousin of Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, would counter with a cross-complaint in order to have the divorce in her name.

Both the petitioners, sister and brother, are great-grandchildren of the late August Belmont, founder of the Belmont fortune and the Westchester Racing Ass'n.

Augie is on terminal leave following nearly two years' service in the Pacific theater. He and Betsy have four children. He was said to have been surprised to find his sister Bessie in Reno also bent for the divorce mill.

The wedding of Augie and Betsy took place in Christ Church, Hamilton, and was attended by the elite of society in the East. A reception followed at the Saltonstall summer home in Topsfield.

Betsy is a graduate of the Foxcroft School and a member of the Vincent Club. Augie graduated from Harvard.

Holiday Spurs V-Loan Effort

Seeking to boost bond sales as their contribution in America's first observance of Armistice Day since the end of hostilities, thousands of volunteer Victory Loan workers today spread out through Greater Boston and Massachusetts in a concentrated attack on the state's bond quota.

The holiday also provided Victory Bond-buying Bostonians their last chance to see "Victory in Science," the pageant of secret weapons and devices on display at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge.

Purchase of a Victory Bond at member stores of the Boston Retail Trade Board, open this afternoon, or at a bond booth on the M. I. T. grounds, entitles the buyer to two tickets for the final showing of the exhibition, from 2 p. m. until 9 p. m.

War finance committee officers announced today that the public had bought approximately 25 per cent of the Victory Bonds so far in the drive. Sales of E bonds for the same period amounted to 18.6 per cent of the $65,000,000 quota.

HUNGER STRIKE SPREADS
LIVEPOOL, Nov. 12 (AP)—The week-old hunger strike of Greek seamen demanding unemployment between ships spread today to more than 400 men.

Next to travel and the Britanica I know of no sport more conducive to a rapid education than standing behind a counter and waiting on trade. The information a lad can pick up selling the public is so impressive that it is my considered opinion that in years hence a year behind the counter will be made compulsory for youths along with a year behind a gun, though in a sense these two programs more or less overlap. Once in a while, however, some of the pearls of wisdom thus absorbed are a bit on the tarnished side but no educational process is perfect or haven't you heard about the revolution at Harvard—

In other words the public is sometimes wrong and I know of no more persistent example of its erroneous thinking than its belief, so often, that nothing over a quarter has any place in the ready to wear field, or to put it another way, anything expensive (in the men's wear field at least) must be ipso facto custom made. We servants of the people hear this argument frequently. Show some people any shirt over a couple of bucks or a suit over fifty and out comes that "why I can buy it custom made at that price."

Now this is no brief for or against the custom made. Personally I care for no part of it. I twitch too much ever to get fitted properly and the only thing I'd wait three months to see is a miracle of Hedy Lamarr. What I'd like to get across is this fact—that the truly fine has a definite place in the ready-to-wear and when it is available it is deservedly expensive. All this mental prune whip is the result of a small shipment of topcoats we received from the Oxford Clothing Co. yesterday. Like everything else they make these garments are of elegant quality and their cut and design is worthy of that quality. These coats are priced at $95.00 and 102.00 respectively. If you can afford fine clothing please come in and look them over but please don't tell us you can "buy them custom made at that price." My clerks are too refined either to refute or to rebuke you.

ing here?" asked the general. "Why, Ike, didn't you know this was my home town?" answered Phillips.

The general and his wife, accompanied by Gov. Tobin, Mayor Kerrigan and Col. James Stack, the general's aide, stepped into a closed car and headed away from the base.

Such a large crowd was waiting outside the gate, however, that the general asked that the party shift to an open car.

He sat in the middle of the rear seat with one arm around his wife while with the other he waved and doffed his cap to the thousands who had lined up all along the emergency route for a glimpse of him.

He had a particularly warm greeting for hundreds of children, who lined Neponset bridge.

All along Old Colony blvd., throngs were waiting and cheering and his arrival near Columbia stadium completely demoralized a football game in progress there.

The motorcade headed along the Strandway and into L st. and the general was given a rousing greeting by Naval personnel lined up outside the Fargo barracks and from Army tugs and transports docked at the Army base, where whistles shrilled a welcoming din.

The motorcade headed from South Station up Congress st. to the Sumner tunnel entrance, at which point it originally had been scheduled to parade through Boston streets in the event the general had landed at Logan Airport.

A huge throng was on hand there and the general immediately climbed to the back of the rear seats, to be given a tumultuous cheer as his car crept along Hanover st. to Scollay sq.

But the biggest crush of all was in Park sq., outside the Statler, with every possible bit of space being filled with spectators craning for a glimpse of the hero who had smashed the Axis in Europe.

Bursting through police ranks, they surrounded his car but willingly made way for him to be hustled, still smiling, into the hotel.

The general's C-54 Skymaster was in constant communication with officials here and at Bermuda from the time it took off from the island base for Boston at 6:45 a. m.

In contact with the plane here were Col. James Stack, the general's aide, and Maj. Robert L. Schulz, his transport liaison officer.

Shortly before 9 a. m., Capt. Bennett reported his plane was flying "at 37 north normal, on schedule, ceiling and visibility good."

Stack replied to him that the ceiling and visibility were looking better in this area, although an early morning fog still clung low over land and water.

At about that time Gov. Tobin called Col. Stack on the telephone and expressed concern over the possibilities of an accident if an attempt were made to land the plane here.

"There is no reason for such concern," Col. Stack told him. "The plane has plenty of gas—enough to go back to the Azores, if necessary."

"Charlie Bennett and the general have flown in conditions much worse than this all over Europe. Charlie is in full charge of the ship and the general has every confidence in him. He is being briefed all the way and, in any event, will be extra cautious. There is no need for worry." Calmest of all during the long wait was Mrs. Eisenhower, who had arrived in Boston late last night from Washington, where she had placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in memory of the dead of World War II.

Hearst History Test Waited by Students

Preparing to compete in the annual Hearst Newspapers' American History Awards, pupils in Boston's 41 public and parochial high schools will return to classes tomorrow with an added interest in the historical events of their own country.

The Hearst Awards include local prizes of $1000 in Victory Bonds and national awards totaling $25,000.

Examinations for Boston participants will be held on Friday, Nov. 30, in their respective schools, at the same hours throughout the city. Examination papers will be accompanied by an essay of not more than 250 words, on a subject vital to the history of the United States.

The top 41 contestants in these preliminary examinations will be eligible for a further contest, in Faneuil Hall, and the first three winners of this contest will compete in the national contest in 13 major cities throughout the country.

These awards, sponsored by the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, are endorsed by leading educators of the city, including Sup. Arthur L. Gould of Boston's public schools and the Rev. William J. Daly, supervisor of the parochial schools of the archdiocese.

Examination papers will be graded by a committee of judges, to be announced later. The examinations will be identifiable only through code numbers, and will bear neither names, addresses or schools of the contestants, to ensure complete fairness.

All public and parochial high school pupils in Boston are eligible for these awards, with the exception of members of the families of employees of the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

The local prizes, all in Victory Bonds, are: First, $200; second, $100; third, $75; fourth through sixth, $50; seventh through twenty-fifth, $25. There will be an additional award of $100 for a set of books on American history, presented to the school of the winner of the first award.

Smart Set

FASHIONABLE SOCIALITES are greeting the new season with a galaxy of fetching hats as gay as any pre-war Easter parade. Perky bonnets were very much in evidence at the enjoyable afternoon reception Mrs. Stephen Paine of Chestnut Hill gave for her debutante daughter Sarah.

The pouters, distinguished by their corsages of white orchids, included Mrs. Preston Stephenson in a dress of violet wool with a fascinating little bonnet of pink and violet ostrich tips. Mrs. Lawrence Hays, also taking her turn at the tea table.

Sarah Paine Feted

brightened her black crepe dress with a saucy red feather turban and Mrs. George Brown in cinnamon crepe chose a becoming hat of peppermint pink shirred ribbon. Guests included Mrs. Charles Jenney, Mrs. Sherman Damon, Mrs. Charles Mats, Mrs. George Willard Smith, Mrs. Morris La-Croix and daughter Ruth, Mrs. Henry Middendorf, Mrs. Albert Everts and two aunts of the debutante, Mrs. David Brayton and Mrs. John Blodget. Sarah is a member of the Vincent Club and a provisional member of the Junior League.

MRS. CHARLES A. SHEA of Federal Hill Farm, Dedham, is having a delightful holiday in her fragrant greenhouse picking and choosing a profusion of chrysanthemums to be used as table decorations at the Charlotte Cushman Club's tea for theatrical stars tomorrow afternoon at 86 Beacon st.

Celebrities of the stage currently appearing here will be guests of honor. Jane Ferguson, assisted by Rose Marie Forde, will head the pouters and hostesses will include Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French, president of the club, Mrs. A. Houston Coyle, Mrs. William H. Ellis, Jr., Mrs. Henry W. Longfellow, Mrs. William C. Egan, Mrs. Lyman Gutterson, Mrs. Ralph Worden and Mrs. Nelson Howard.

IN KEEPING with November's zesty mood of crisp weather and spicy chrysanthemums the Women's City Club is having a varied and stimulating program of pre-holiday events. Members and friends will have an opportunity to meet in person two well known men of the theatrical world at Q—Can an enlisted man who served only in the Zone of Interior wear the American Campaign Medal? T. D., Burlington, Vt.

A—The American Campaign Medal is awarded to members of the land and naval forces who served honorably on active duty in the continental United States for an accumulative period of one year during World War II.

Q—My son in the service is applying for a dependency discharge. If he receives it, does he forfeit his mustering out pay and other benefits under the GI Bill? He has been in service over three years. S. A., Haverhill.

A—He would be entitled to the mustering out pay and to any benefits under the GI Bill to which he would be entitled if honorably discharged on points.

Q—Is there such a thing as a Victory ribbon? If so, how is it worn? O. C., Rochester.

A—Congress has enacted legislation establishing a Victory Medal for World War II, to be awarded to all members of the armed forces who served honorably on active duty at any time between Dec. 7, 1941 and the date of termination of hostilities. The ribbon is worn immediately after the campaign ribbons for World War II.

Q—I had a son killed in action and I am receiving his insurance payments and $45 pension. My other son has now been drafted and wants to apply for Family Allowance for me. Will I lose the insurance and pension if he does this. A. S. P., Holyoke.

A—Your insurance payments will not be affected. The Family Allowance is paid when the evidence submitted shows sufficient degree of dependency to warrant payment. If your insurance and pension together covered your living expenses, you would not be eligible for Family Allowance. However, your son could authorize a Class E allotment. That is an amount of his pay to which no allowance is added by the government. The Veterans Administration can advise you whether you would continue to receive the pension if you also receive Family Allowance.

Q—How does veterans' preference count in civil service rating? J. B., Newton.

A—To the rating given for a civil service examination, 5 points are added for a veteran, 10 points for a disabled veteran.

Free meeting places have been provided by the Boston School Committee, in co-operation with the Record-American Sunday Advertiser at 14 school centers in the city where ex-servicemen can meet their former buddies, discuss organizational plans and check on jobs. 16-Year-Old Sailor Denies 2d Elopement With Matron

OROVILLE, Cal., Nov. 12 (AP)—Ellsworth Wisecarver, 16-year-old merchant seaman who last year eloped with a woman eight years his senior, is being held in the Butte County jail today in another episode involving an older woman.

The youth had been hunted since last Thursday, when the father of Mrs. Eleanor Deveny, 25, mother of two children, told Long Beach authorities his daughter and Wisecarver disappeared Wednesday night from a Long Beach home where both were guests.

Wisecarver walked into the Oroville police station Saturday night and surrendered. Police said he denied any knowledge of Mrs.

Deveny's whereabouts. After questioning, he was booked for investigation.

Wisecarver hit the headlines when he eloped last year with Mrs. Elaine Ludlum Mofredi, 22, also mother of two children. Married at Yuma, Ariz., they were found honeymooning at Denver after the boy's mother appealed to the police. Their marriage was annulled.

The youth joined the Merchant Marine after his enforced separation from Mrs. Mofredi.

Gin of pre-war quality made with pre-war imported botanicals

- 1 Today Hiram Walker brings you gin made with the same imported herbs, roots and berries used in the making of Hiram Walker's pre-war gin.
- 2 And remember, between Repeal and Pearl Harbor Americans bought more Walker-made gin than any other kind.

Juniper from Italy! Harvesters "spank" the prized juniper bush of the Apennines with sticks, to shake its ripe, unmatchable berries onto sheets laid carefully on the ground beneath. These and ALL the herbs, roots and berries used in making Hiram Walker's Gin—such as coriander from China, coriander from Czechoslovakia, and orange peel from Valencia—come from a supply imported before the war. These imported botanicals, plus 100% American grain spirits, give Hiram Walker's Gin its real, pre-war quality.

Tomb of the Unknown Warriors

THE TOMB of the Unknown Soldier is our national memorial to our American dead of World War I.

It is time now to consider a memorial as beautiful and as inspiring to our nearly 300,000 dead in the war recently ended.

The white marble tomb of the Unknown Soldier stands silhouetted above the trees in our national cemetery at Arlington, Va., bearing the simple inscription: "Here Rests in Honored Glory an American Soldier Known But to God."

None but God knew the identity, the race, the religion of this soldier brought home from France a quarter-century ago to "rest in honored glory"—a symbol of all who gave their lives for our country. As he became a symbol so did his tomb become a shrine, and there over the years America has paid tribute and the families of our hero dead have found consolation in prayer.

A new memorial is in order and it is appropriate to bring him for similar tribute two of our unidentified dead of World War II—one from the Pacific War and one from the Atlantic theater. For these were in reality two wars, each more terrible than any in history and one fought beyond the span of the other.

We believe the men who fought on these two battlefronts and the families of the men who died on these battlefronts will wish this distinction made.

It would also seem appropriate to erect the Tomb of the Unknown Warriors rather than another Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. In this way all branches of our armed services will be symbolized. For our dead of these latest conflicts, sleeping now in the far lands and alien seas, were members of all branches—Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard and the Air Corps of each service—WARRIORS ALL.

PROFITS AND WAGES

SEVERAL COMMITTEES of the National Association of Manufacturers, representing most of the industries of this country which produce the vast quantities of manufactured goods the American people need and want, have conducted an intensive study during the past three years of the problems of reconversion.

The essence of their report is that productive enterprise, if it is to give the American people the measure of postwar prosperity and the volume of postwar employment they desire and deserve, must be PROFITABLE enterprise.

Since profits in productive industry are so often represented—in reality, MISREPRESENTED—by enemies of the American system of free private enterprise as being in conflict with wages in industry, there should be exceptional public interest in the viewpoint of industrial management on this phase of the matter.

"The presence of profit for employers," in fact, says the report, "is the workers' ONLY GUARANTEE of employment and wages. Profit is far more important to workers than to owners, however falsely they are now persuaded to the contrary."

This is strictly in accord with all our American history and experience. But it is not in accord with our recent and present governmental practice.

Even before the war, the disposition among powerful elements within the American government was to DEPRIVE productive industry of a profit margin sufficient to sustain it—and thus to create a politically MANAGED national economy rather than a competitively FREE economy.

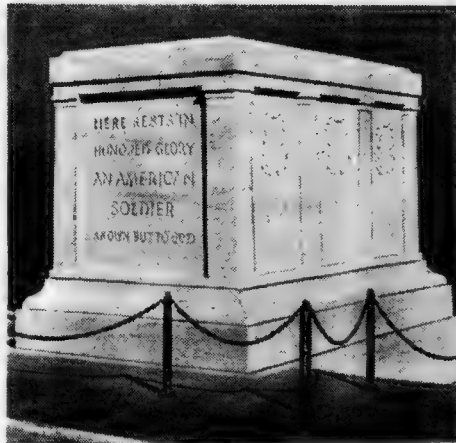

During the war, this trend was ominously accelerated—the people and management and labor and government being willing to yield to it, in the interest of submerging all things—even freedom—to winning the war.

Now the country must make a choice. It can make the managed economy of the New Dealers PERMANENT, and thus destroy profitable productive enterprise.

Or it can restore and return to the traditional free economy of a democratic America, and thus have a wage system to which the profit system is a limitless source of strength and expansion.

It cannot have BOTH.

"S" YOU SAY some man in Chicago became a grandfather twice in the same day, writes a Brooklynite. "And so what? Are we supposed to go wild with astonishment?" Mrs. Grace Fagan, who was born and raised in Brooklyn, became a grandmother twice in the same day. That was 25 years ago. Three weeks ago Mrs. Fagan became a great grandmother twice in the same day. When will people in other sections learn that Brooklyn cannot be topped?

PLEASE NOTE: A red-haired subscriber claims that in a recent survey a group of department store executives voted that beautiful red-heads like Jeanette MacDonald made the best saleswomen. Have not heard of this survey. Our Horses & Women Department is checking on it.

However, I have heard personnel experts prefer blondes and red-heads as saleswomen because they "light up" the store and make the atmosphere seem more cheerful.

THAT DOG AGAIN: As previously reported, the poet Pope gave the king a dog and wrote the following inscription for the pup's collar: I am His Highness' dog at Kew, Pray tell me, sir, whose dog are you?

I stated I was trying to figure out an inscription for my dog but had only been able to figure out the following: I am Ed Durling's dog, but I ain't blue. Pray tell me, sir, whose dog are you?

Now a subscriber named Roso Martin says that 50 years ago her dog, a Cocker Spaniel, had the following inscription on his collar: I am Roso Martin's bow-wow Whose bow-wow art thou?

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—How many children is it possible for one woman to have? A—That, I couldn't say. However, it is a matter of record that in Russia in 1757 a woman summoned to the court of the Empress Catherine was the mother of 57 children, all living. There were four sets of quadruplets, seven sets of triplets, ten sets of twins. Q—Have you anything in your Hones & Women files about greeneyed dishwater blondes with dishpan hands? A—Our H & W experts say dishwater blondes, no matter what color eyes they have, usually suffer from an inferiority complex. A woman who speaks bitterly of her "dishpan hands" is usually one who is inclined to spend a lot of time feeling sorry for herself. A martyr type.

ASIDES: Ourdell is the name which Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rackov of Oakland, Cal., have given their recently born daughter. . . . A Bloomfield, N. J., reader says he has as pets: a cat, two dogs, six monkeys and a deodorized skunk. The skunk's name is Rasmus.

THINGS SEEN: "In Los Angeles" says a Californian, "I saw a man walking along the street nonchalantly smoking three cigars at the same time." Very interesting. I can't top it. However, I once saw a man and a dog walking along Broadway, Manhattan, and the dog was smoking a pipe. And I'm not kidding. It was a ballyhoo for a brand of pipe tobacco.

TWINS: "So you challenge people to name twins who have been successful," writes a Bostonian. "Laraine Day, the successful movie actress, is one of twins. Listen, women don't smoke stogies. What do you offer feminine subscribers for their alertness in correcting you? Or are you afraid that, as the women are so smart, it would be too expensive to offer anything?"

PASSING BY: Andy High. Once a third-sacker for the Dodgers. That was in the days of Zack Wheat and Jake Daubert. Andy, who is now a scout for the Brooklyn Club, has just returned from the Southern Pacific, where he served with the Seabees.

BRIEFLY: You have heard of those "beauty farms" to which some females retire for a period to seek relaxation and to take treatments designed to improve their appearance. The charge, per person, at the leading farm of this type is $500 a week! . . . Somebody asked me if I knew of a former Major League named "Old Broadway." I didn't. Now, Arthur Fortune of Chicago says that in the Eighties there was a famous Giant catcher known as "Broadway" Alex Smith.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—President Truman's criticism of the House Ways and Means Committee for its failure to comply promptly and fully with its Unemployment Compensation plan is reminiscent of the Roosevelt strategy.

Here is a proposal which would repudiate the basic principle of unemployment compensation and substitute a dole. Unemployment Compensation at stated legal rates is not a favor from a generous State to subjects whose political gratitude the ruling party desires to exploit at the polls.

Westbrook Pegler

It is a legal right of the individual clients. Mr. Truman's proposal is not legal but emotional and is based on desire rather than right.

The President offered this plan while the war with Japan was still in progress. The purpose was to persuade large numbers of transient war workers then employed in shipyards and aircraft factories on the Pacific Coast to stick to their jobs and not drift away.

After V-J Day, the plan still was pushed, however, the pleas now being that these workers would have hard going during conversion.

THIS FLOUTS the propaganda of the Roosevelt government, and particularly of the Treasury during the war production years, which held that the maintenance of time and one-half and double time pay, under conditions of labor shortage, was justified because the workers would invest their surplus in bonds and use some of the money to supplement their legitimate unemployment compensation during conversion.

This was one cause of the present inflation. These rates had been established during a time of labor surplus and unemployment, ostensibly as a mere expedient to encourage employers from operating in over-time periods and to spread the work.

Actually, of course, there was no intention ever that they should be revoked. One political effect of this maintenance of this over-time rate was that Roosevelt's henchmen in the unions were enabled to boast to the workers that they had wrought great benefits for them.

Actually, they had nothing to do with it. Roosevelt did it all, and the unions levied veritable income taxes on these high wages and used much of the money to elect him the fourth time.

MR. TRUMAN is right, of course, to the extent that living costs, the housing shortage and the income tax in many areas of work left the workers with little if any more than a living wage.

A family unit of three, each of whom had been earning an average of say $30 a week and lived together with reasonable economy would have come to V-J Day well heeled.

Another worker, the sole earner, with a wife and three dependent children in another section of the country, also earning $30 a week, would have wound up broke and threadbare.

Mr. Truman's proposal, however, would have regarded these two cases as equally needy, and moreover would have exaggerated the disparity by granting the prosperous unit first cited $75 a week and the other only $25.

But that is not all there is to the case against Mr. Truman's dole. An employer with a $40 a week job available for a half-skilled youth, previously employed in war industry, would find that he was actually offering only $15 a week, the margin above the dole.

One employer who did have such a job, in a state with high unemployment rates was unable to fill it for this reason, frankly stated.

And the available candidates were hardly to blame either, when they could earn $20 or $30 a week on the odd jobs basis which is not regarded as employment, or just relax on the $25 a week.

ONE COMPANY presents correspondence exchanged with the State Unemployment Commission in two cases which illustrate the abuse of such laws, even at their best, and before the adoption of the proposed dole.

In one case a boy of 18 worked part time for about three months and quit rather than take a full time job. His earnings were $144 and he was awarded compensation of $383.

In another an employee who earned $32.53 at part time work, which he quit, was deemed to be entitled to $572.

In each case the employer argued that, all other considerations apart, neither of these clients was entitled to compensation because employment was available.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12—Well, I'm going to act! Seems to me I am always doing something I least expect to do. Mervyn Le Roy and Jesse Lasky asked me to play myself in "Thanks God, I'll Take It from Here," and Claudette Colbert joined in the request.

So you know me! With the promise that I could make the scenes at my leisure, and if I looked like Mrs. Methuselah and the wrinkles showed too much I could back out—we agreed.

I like the role. I play a radio commentator and I am a part of the plot. If I hadn't liked it so much I would have said no—but when have I ever said no? What am I saying! I mean where a job is concerned.

Claudette Colbert

ONE THING'S certain, David Niven will spend Christmas in Hollywood. He starts "The Perfect Marriage" the middle of December for Hal Wailis. He'll do that before he does "Obsessed" opposite Joan Crawford, or any other movie. "The Perfect Marriage" in the Samson Raphaelson play which starred Miriam Hopkins and Victor Jory on the stage. David, of course, plays the Jory role. So far, Hal says he hasn't anyone for Miriam's role. The play, as we have often said, wasn't much on the stage, but I am told Hal has a good script. You know he would have or else he wouldn't start it.

AT LONG, LONG LAST "The Outlaw" opens nationally Feb. 8, ending a four-year battle between Howard Hughes and the censors. You have to say one thing for Howard—he is the only producer (perhaps the only one rich enough) ever to tie up $2,000,000 for such a long time just to fight for what he believes is right. He won his fight, for there is not a single scene cut from the original "Outlaw," which I saw four years ago in San Francisco, and not a single line changed—not even one of Jane Russell's well-advertised "lines." Speaking of Jane, she will be in New York for the premiere, but Jack Beutel, her co-star, can't make it on account of he's still in the Navy.

AN INTERESTING Hollywood hero is Capt. Johnny Morse, the American officer who opened Hitler's personal safe at Berchtesgaden. He had only been back a couple of days when I had a chance to talk to him and I asked him if it were true that all he had found in the chief Nazi rafter's box was a series of dress designs and patterns for women's clothes. "Yes," he said, "that was all. Not even a piece of family silver." Before Capt. Morse went into the service, he was a well-known assistant director and worked on pictures with both Henry Hathaway and Preston Sturges at Paramount. "No one will ever know," he told me, "the excitement we felt in blasting that safe—and then have it reveal nothing but some snappy ways to make women's dresses."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Tony Martin is heading home after a year and a half in the China-Burma-India theater of war and there's a story packed with drama. I happen to know that Tony is a heart-sore kid. He's taken a lot of bad breaks—but he's tried hard to make up for any mistakes he made in the beginning. I just had a letter from Terry Hunt, Tony's former commanding officer, and Terry says: "Every GI who was a buddy of Tony's in the C. B. I. will say that he's a great guy. He was sick with malaria and dengue fever but he gave 400 performances—one when he had a fever of 107. He worked unceasingly to bring a little entertainment, or a happy song, to guys who needed morale bolstering. Ask the boys who know." So, I say, when Tony Martin gets home, let's put the welcome mat out.

I AM GLAD Josephine Hutchinson has decided to come out of retirement and make a picture.

She's such a swell actress, and two years ago she said she was going to be just Mrs. Jimmie Townsend. But Joe Mankiewicz had just the role for her in "Somewhere at Night," Andy Lawler's first picture. Nancy Guild and Randy Scott are in the picture, and we'll all be glad to see Jo on the screen again. In fact, Darryl Zanuck complimented the boys on getting her.

JOHNNY WEISMULLER may get himself a leading lady as well as a bride in Brenda Helder, his current heartbeats. Brenda and Johnny are inseparable and she sits all day long on the set where he's making "Swamp Fire" for Pine and Thomas. Not only did Bill Thomas take stock of her devotion but he also took stock of

Boston American, Nov. 12—23

Brenda. He asked her to make a test and it was so good, for a girl who has had no camera experience, that Mr. T. is looking for a story in which she could emote opposite her boy friend. Which doesn't make Johnny mad, you bet.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Frank Kilbuck, who has done much to put Las Vegas on the map, will marry Mary Victoria Starr, a well-known designer, on Tuesday; Edith Gwynn, well-known columnist, and Buster Murray have changed their minds about getting married. In other words, the engagement is broken; come March, Rita Quigley, now wed to Lt. Arthur Goehner, will welcome the stork; the Franz Waxmans—he's the composer have separated and he has moved out. This matrimonial break-up has been brewing for months: Vivian Blain takes off for Chicago before Christmas to get herself a Christmas present—an adopted baby. Though Sonja Henie's jaw is still badly swollen, the little ice skating star and her big revenue will nevertheless open as scheduled in Indianapolis on Tuesday because "the show must go on" and the doctor has said Sonja's physical condition is much better.

HAZEL FURIES is still sizing up the intimation that she's been carrying on with Duncan MacMartin, who isn't even divorced. She has consulted her lawyer, Richard Catlin; John Ford's daughter, Barbara, who has been very ill, is home from the hospital; the Chamber of Commerce should interview Harry Brand. Did California look good to him when he returned Friday; guesses in Hollywood are 9-to-1 in favor of the belief that William Eytne will marry Margaret Whiting while he's in New York. He'll be there about November 26. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—As an ardent city dweller, and an equally enthusiastic dog lover, I am irked at times to hear suburbanites mutter darkly, "I think it's CRUEL to keep a dog in the city!" Granted, it would be unjust to coo a king-sized Great Dane in a one-and-a-half-room walk-up apartment suitable only for chihuahuas, but I've never run across a case like that or anything comparable.

Arlene Francis

Actually I've found that urban dog fanciers bend over backward to be kind to their four-footed friends, perhaps to make up to them for the lack of fresh country air and roamable fields. New York pooches are pampered, fed only the finest food, catered to by more veterinarians per square mile than exist in any other locality, conformed or otherwise. Many's the time I've heard two dog lovers exchanging careful notes in Central Park on how many vitamins Rover got yesterday, and what's the best pooch hand-dressing parlor in town.

And to the accusations that New Yorkers arbitrarily confine large dogs to small apartments, I counter with an incident reported by Arlene Francis. Arlene was in a pet shop the other day buying her Skye terrier a comfortable sleeping basket, when a large matron entered and accosted the manager: "I want to buy a dog," she said. "What kind?" the manager asked, "Oh, I don't know," said the lady with a look of concern. "But one that would be happy in a five-room terrace apartment with two baths."

TO CONNOISSEURS of pretty legs, I recommend an early viewing of Gale and Leonard, the dance teams at the Club London. The legs belong to the feminine half of the combination, but which name belongs to her I don't know. I wish dance couples would start calling themselves Joe and Jane, or Agnes and Arlie, or even Mr. and Mrs. Smith. It would be easier on the public, the caption writers, and the m.c.'s. The plight of Jerome Kern, who was stricken on the street and taken to Welfare Island because no one knew who he was, reminded me rather sharply that I almost never carry any identification with me.

HAVING HEARD Bing Crosby's mentholated baritone emanate from the lips of Eddie Bracken in "Out of This World" and the soulful crooning of Sinatra stem from Phil Silvers' suddenly silver throat in "A Thousand and One Nights," I have become hopelessly obsessed with the possibility of carrying such tricks even further. I should love, for instance, to hear Mae West's come-litherish tones coming from cool, superior Greer Garson, and Edward G. Robinson's peculiar speech emerging from Charles Boyer's ardently curled lips might be very amusing, indeed. A combination of Martha Raye's face and the voice of Mickey Mouse for that matter, Ingrid Bergman) would appeal to my funnybone—and who wouldn't adore Betty Davis speaking in the tones of Betty Hutton?

secretary of the Senate.

The President, as usual, was preceded by his military aide, Brig. Gen. Harry Vaughan. Vaughan entered the outer office, Mr. Biffle's secretary, the brunette and shapely Miss Betty Euler, was on the phone.

She was talking to Mrs. Betty Hart Kraus, also of Mr. Biffle's staff, who was badly injured in a glider crash four months ago. The beautiful Mrs. Kraus has been confined to bed ever since.

Miss Euler, who had not noticed the President, looked up from the phone at Gen. Vaughan and said:

"I'm talking to Betty Kraus. Would you like to say a few words to her?" "No," said Gen. Vaughan, "but there's someone else here who would. Don't tell her who it is."

At this moment, the President, who had been standing behind his aide, reached for the instrument. Stricken numb with surprise, Miss Euler automatically handed it to him.

The President asked the crash-victim how she was feeling and Mrs. Kraus said she was coming along as well as could be expected. They chatted a moment and then Mrs. Kraus asked:

"By the way, who is that?" The President's face broke into an impish grin. "Just me—just the President!"

MISS EULER came back on the phone after that to finish the conversation with her chum. But Mrs. Kraus told her she had better hang up.

"I don't think you'd better be talking any more with all that excitement around here," she said. "Besides, after all this, I've got to take a sedative!"

MONDAY MUSINGS: One of the gentlemen in the theater business, Arthur Hopkins, is in town. Mr. Hopkins thinks that his "The Joyous Season," starring Ethel Barrymore, and written by Philip Barry, is worthy of the public's attention. . . . It tells the story of a nun who returns to her Boston family—a family of high renown—after she has become mother superior of her order. . . . The play is clean throughout.

ANOTHER gentleman of the theater, John C. Wilson, brought a musical to Boston last Monday. . . . The show's name is "The Day Before Spring," and it is clean throughout. . . . "The Day Before Spring" is selling out. . . . A third gentleman of the theater, Michael Todd, is preparing two theatrical attractions for Boston. . . . One is Molere's "The Would-Be Gentleman," and Bobby Clark is starred. . . . The second is Shakespeare's "Hamlet," and Maurice Evans is starred. . . . Both are classical and clean throughout. A trend? . . . To quote the author Mr. Todd, "The presentation of 'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished' . . . In short, we hope so."

SOUTH SHORE schoolboy football enthusiasts are sounding the tocsin for a post-season game between the undefeated Brockton High and equally undefeated Everett High. . . . Brockton has rolled over seven opponents during the season while Everett has steam-rolled six rivals. . . . Because of the point system used in naming the title winners in various schoolboy classes, Brockton must finish second to Everett even if both teams win all their remaining games. . . . Jack McLean, the Scituate bald eagle, who played a lot of quarterback for Dinny Gildes at Everett not too many years ago, says that Everett is a cinch to beat any schoolboy team in New England, if not in the whole U. S. . . . Backers of Coach Marion Roberts' Brockton boys say that Brockton could take Everett any day in the week. . . . Some charity could get itself a substantial lot of benefit by sponsoring a post-season game between these two schoolboy titans. Incidentally, Everett high has received a bid to represent the East in the annual schoolboy Orange Bowl game at Miami.

RACING NOTE. . . . Jack Solomon, famed horse man and Marion's Brighton bistro, is saving his pennies for a prospective killing at Rockingham during this last week of the meeting. . . . The horse involved has been prepared for three months for a disappointing spring campaign. . . . If he doesn't do it this time, there is at least one New England-owned stable that is going to retire from the racing scene.

EDMUND F. HENRY, former trial attorney for a Broad St. insurance outfit, is en route to Tokyo from the Philippines. . . . He is expected to take an important part in future trials of Jap war criminals. . . . The Harvard-trained lawyer has been in the Army for three years. . . . Uncle Sam grabbed him for the armed forces shortly after Lawyer Henry's 36th birthday. . . . After 17 weeks of infantry training in the California desert country, he shipped out to New Guinea. . . . Later he saw action at Bougainville, Leyte and Mindanao. . . . Most unusual was his promotion from back private to warrant officer in one leap. . . . At the moment he holds the Bronze Star and a Presidential Citation for service with the 21st Division. . . . Friends say that Lawyer Henry's next jump will be from warrant officer to major.

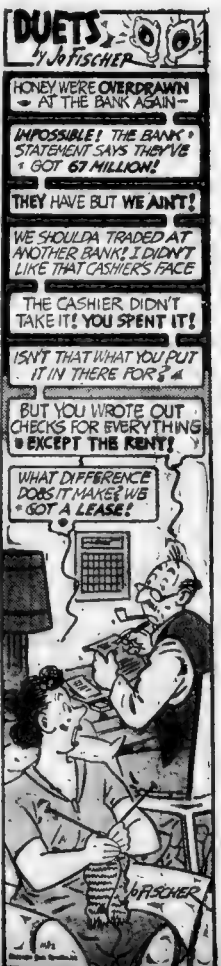

SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S new film "Kiss and Tell" (from the play of that name) is evoking so much unfavorable comment on the score of the double-meaning inferences spattered over the pages of the script that Czar Eric Johnson, successor to Will Hays as morals supervisor, may be forced to take action of some kind. . . . As "Kiss and Tell" was a play about bobby-soxers and jelly-beans, its appeal to adolescents is great. . . . (The kids love to, pooh-pooh attempts at harassing them by their patronizing elders.) FROM Hollywood comes a story that Shirley's bosses were very willing that she become a bride at the tender age of 17. . . . Her first major comeback film seems more appropriate, according to reports, as a stirring film for a "married woman" than for the budding Shirley Temple whom her fans anticipated seeing as a "growing-up" former child star.

Air Hostess Flies With School Bond Champs

Wiser today in the Hub's geography and history, Selma Ticker, attractive brunette of Wisconsin, senior stewardess of United Air Lines, has Boston and Chelsea star school war bond salesmen to thank for it.

She got her first glimpse of the city after 10 years' flying experience when she shepherded 18 school youngsters during an air cruise awarded them for selling bonds.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—We have been through a transit strike here in which bus and trolley shops was at a standstill. Everyone, including delegates to the Labor-Management Conference, had to walk or motor, although I hear most of the labor leaders were able to afford taxis.

Unhindered striking is a lot of fun for the leaders who order the walkout and I suppose we should not begrudge them their simple pleasures. But it is very hard on the rest of us, particularly when the strike involves a public utility upon which our own daily lives are dependent.

It seems to me that striking is beginning to assume the proportions of a special privilege. You have to be a member in good standing of a powerful union to enjoy it. But there are millions of us in the nation, whose parents were not sufficiently far-seeing to have us take up a good trade, who have no striking privileges at all.

We are always the victims; never the victors. We can't go on strike, even in good clean jurisdictional fun, because we cannot pick on anything to strike against.

This is manifestly unfair and un-American. Our founding fathers clearly laid down the proposition that there should be no special privilege; that it should be all for one, and one for all, and two for five and six for a quarter.

If we are to accept the strike as a social pastime it should be made a game that all can play. Provision should be made for all Americans to go on strike periodically—in addition, of course, to the two weeks' vacation with pay—say a month or so every year.

Farmers, I hear, work as hard as anybody, or maybe harder. Why shouldn't they go on strike for a month in the spring and another month in the fall?

"Naw, I don't have to be in school, lady, I've got the measles!"

Richman Brothers civvies are very much in fashion today, because they deserve to be.

STABBED IN THE BACK BY ARTHRITIS

NOW is the time of the year when Arthritis is on the loose, stabbing victim after victim with its deadly dagger of pain. If you are one of those unfortunate people, here is important information for you to know. Many people suffering from nagging arthritis pains in back, knees, shoulders and hands, never suspect that these pains may be substantially caused, in some cases, by excessive acid wastes within the body.

As a dietary aid to assist the body's faster neutralization and elimination of these excessive acid wastes from tissues and joints, which in turn may tend to bring speedier pain relief to this extent, Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets were devised by a well-known food nutritionist. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets contain food sodium and food iodine, two minerals of nutritional value which may prove to be helpful to many arthritis sufferers. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets are free from all harmful chemical drugs. They positively do not contain injurious ingredients of any kind.

CUT OUT THIS ADVERTISEMENT and present it with $1.95 at any Nature Food Centres Store to get your Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets. Take them as directed on the label and if they do not bring soothing relief to your aching joints and muscles faster than any other dietary aid you have ever used, THE TRIAL IS FREE! Just return the bottle and get your money back. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets cost only a few cents a day to use. 250 Tablet Bottles $1.95. (500 Tablet Economy Size, $3.25). Mail orders sent postpaid. They are sold only at

Religion Class Boom Seen

Within the next five years the number of school children receiving week-day religious instruction in this state under the legislative act of 1941 will expand to at least 150,000, the Rev. Daniel W. Stafffield of Quincy told the Massachusetts Council of Churches today.

Dr. Stafffield's prophecy was contained in a report which he read to the council, as its director of week-day religious education, at the annual convention in Old South Church.

A feature of the convention was the presentation of a scroll and purse to the Rev. Frank Jennings, Baptist clergyman and the Council's executive secretary for the last 10 years, in appreciation of his leadership. The presentations were made by the Rt. Rev. W. Appleton Lawrence, Episcopal bishop of the Western Massachusetts diocese, and the Rev. Dana McLean Greeley of the Arlington Street Church.

Dr. Stafffield told the convention that since the legislature's act of four years ago authorized public school officials to release children one hour a week for religious instruction the number of Protestant children participating has grown from 700 the first year to 6400 at present.

Children of all faiths now receive week-day religious instruction in 66 communities, the clergyman reported. He added, however, that in some towns the Protestant churches were "caught napping." He urged a five-year teacher training program to speed the movement.

Approximately 150 delegates representing 13 Protestant denominations are attending the convention. They approved the adoption of two new departments for the council, one for research

Cream Erases Wrinkles

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

IF YOUR SKIN is youthful and firm . . . if your complexion is wrinkle-free . . . smooth and glowy . . . then you are one woman in a thousand who has truly attained a facial "joy of living." And, if you have that kind of a face, keep it under glass, literally . . . and guard it well, for you are an extraordinary exception.

Most women reaching the dangerous age, however, when the joy of living is becoming slightly shopworn . . . find their skin showing unmistakable signs of years and, perhaps, neglect. For them, there should be definitely included in their beauty routine of facial preservation and conservation an exquisite and exclusive cosmetic . . . most appropriately named, "the joy of living."

This cream, created by a beautician whose name is one of the pioneering bulwarks of the cosmetic industry and whose products have maintained more beauties than could be added up on an adding machine, is a specific treatment for wrinkles. I like to think of it as an anti-wrinkle cream . . . for that's its purpose . . . and it is most effective in doing its job well.

It does a great deal in erasing wrinkles from around the eyes . . . around the mouth where expression lines take firm root, and unattractively so . . . and on the forehead where wrinkles are wont to etch themselves and remain because the skin is particularly dry and thin in those areas.

JUST PAT IT ON GENTLY

But, we've found that the most difficult skins . . . both as to wrinkles and dryness . . . have been known to respond most promisingly to this cream. It is simple to apply, yet powerful in its action. Simply pat it on gently and smooth upward and outward for a few moments . . . and leave it on overnight to let it do its good work. Do it faithfully. Naturally, don't expect miracles overnight . . . but patiently watch the improvement in your complexion after a short period of indulgence.

Too often we women let wrinkles take hold . . . do nothing about them for ever so long . . . and then, suddenly, expect a cyclonic redemption of our facial misgivings with one application of cream. True, this cream has remedial powers . . . but give it a chance. Give it a chance.

For the name of this wrinkle-challenging cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, or write Mrs. E. of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Gives Happiness Guide

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

HERE'S ANOTHER happy marriage, and the writer who has weathered the ups-and-downs of double harness thinks that happy marriage can be made to work if you don't put the blame on the other party.

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I've been reading your column for a good many years and have noticed the slightly bitter letters from both men and women concerning marriage which they've not found a bed of roses. The trouble with these people seems to be that they consider the blame rests entirely on the other party.

"One letter attracted my attention particularly, in which a wife states that she's not as happy as a wife as she was as a fiancée. Isn't it possible, if her husband has slipped, it's because she herself has slipped in some way?

"After all, marriage is not 'catch a spouse and relax.' Each one of the partnership should make it a continual courtship. Believe me, a lifetime honeymoon can be managed. I saw it work for 30 years with my mother and father, and it's still working with us. Our own marriage is as thrilling to both of us today as it was in the first days of our honeymoon.

MADE IT SUCCEED

"My husband and I decided when we were engaged that we'd make a success of our marriage because life is short, and in this world we have only one life to live. So during the war and the war separations we ways made the most of every minute.

"Please don't think that because we've got along together we belong to the weakly sentimental type. We're both frightfully independent people, but it meant enough to us that we loved each other and were willing to change a little here and a little there to adjust our two personalities into one harmonious unit.

"If married people find they don't really love each other, then they know what to do. Yes, do something about it—don't just sit 'round and talk about your unsuccessful marriage the rest of your life and warp the minds of young people who hope to be happily married.

"And don't listen to old cynical people who have made a failure of their marriages. Listen to the thousands like me who are as happy and always will be as in those honeymoon days. Even that's putting it mildly.

Another Happy Wife."

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

ARE YOU GUILTY? Are you addicted to sitting with your feet on chair or sofa? "Tucking" your feet under you may be comfortable but it is hard on furniture and spoils your appearance.

Beauty

WRAP YOUR throat and wrists with strands of gold, say the fashion experts. Achieve the new swathed look afforded by these Coro-designed stunning chokers . . . and create a glitter-cuff of intriguing bracelets above the long black gloves. This is just one wrinkle of the fashion picture . . . like a marking of a mountain or river on the geography map. A "joy of living" cream . . . specific against wrinkles . . . can really make living a joy when the complexion is wrinkle-free.

My advice is that you use initials of your married name, JSJ.

Fur-Trimmed Ensemble

By BETTINA BEDWELL

MANY a woman who can get her clothes at a fine custom dressmaker place is wearing a fur-trimmed ensemble around this winter in preference to the regular fur coat and dress job. Outfits like the one Miss Dulin has sketched have no superiors in the eyes of women who know all about dressing.

This particular model comes from Harry Collins, known for years as a fine custom dress designer. He makes the dress and jacket of black smooth wool. The jacket is loose with a flattering, broad, but soft shoulder line, and it is very warm for it is lined with Persian lamb, which also makes the tuxedo revers and the cuffs.

The simple dress has chevron tucks at the front, tucks that are hand stitched, and there is a black suede belt.

Cheese Cookery Stages Comeback; New Recipes

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

NEARLY EVERYONE likes cheese and now that it is available without ration points, we turn again to cheese and cheese cookery.

For simple dinner dessert, cheese, say the gourmets, is the perfect answer. Gorgonzola, Camembert and Domestic Roquefort or Blue Cheese are the usual dessert varieties. For cookery purposes, Cheddar is the type most commonly used. Cheese moves into No. 1 place when it comes to appetizers. There are many ways in which cheese is used to make up these delicious little tidbits.

Combine cheese with crisp oven-popped rice cereal to make a spicy, tempting "something to nibble on" which the teenagers will adore, or spread a cheese mixture on large bread cubes, then toast briefly in the oven. Try these cheese suggestions now that cheese is plentiful:

CHEESE NIPPES

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup shortening
2 drops tobacco sauce
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. paprika
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups oven-popped rice cereal
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup dry grated cheese (5 oz.)
Melt shortening in large shallow pan; add seasonings. Stir in rice cereal. Add grated cheese; mix thoroughly. Place in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) stirring occasionally, for about 15 minutes. Makes $5\frac{1}{2}$ cups cheese nippies.

CRISPY CHEESE PUGGS

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter or margarine
1 egg, separated
 $\frac{1}{4}$ lb. grated American cheese
 $2\frac{1}{2}$ $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch cubes of fresh bread (cut from unsliced loaf)
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. dry mustard
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. paprika
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup bran

Cream butter, add egg yolk and mix well. Add cheese, seasonings and bran; mix thoroughly. Add stiffly beaten egg whites and blend well. Spread mixture on five sides of bread cubes. Arrange on a baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 24 puffs. Serve hot as appetizers or with a green salad.

These tasty cheese pastries are new gems of the quick bread family and hungry folks appreciate their worth at many carats of good eating. Yellow

SATURDAY NIGHT at 7:30?

Yes, certainly, when you have a new date-dress like this . . . of ameritaz gabardine, a new crease resistant fabric that keeps you looking like a picture all evening long. Teen-agers date on a basque body . . . and aren't those appliqued sweetheart bows just as snooty as they are the heavenly touch?—R. M.

Diamonds make versatile running mates to many favorite foods. They are attractive in any setting. At luncheon, serve them with bowls of piping hot vegetable soup or accompanying molded tuna fish and vegetable salads. Yellow Diamonds are also true appetite teasers as hors d'oeuvres served with spicy iced tomato juice. As snack food during the break in the day's work, these delightful flavor-mating pastries and mugs of ice cold milk give renewed energy to fill the day's busy working schedule.

YELLOW DIAMONDS

2 cups sifted flour
2 tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup shortening
1 cup grated cheese
4 to 6 tbsp. cold water
Milk

Caraway seed
Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add grated cheese. Mix. Add water gradually. Mix into a dry, crumbly dough. Toss out on lightly floured pastry cloth. Roll and fold until smooth. Roll about $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thick. Cut into diamond-shaped pieces. Brush with milk and sprinkle lightly with caraway seed. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Makes 3 dozen $3\frac{1}{2}$ -inch diamonds or 9 dozen 1-inch diamonds.

We made a point of having the best Christmas we could scrape together at KARENKO Prison Camp in 1942. Our spirits were so low at that season we

By Gen. Jonathan Wainwright

(In today's touching 32d article of his dramatic series, Gen. Wainwright tells more about what went on at the bestial KARENKO Prison Camp on Formosa, and leads up to his eventual removal.)

French chefs prepare so delectably. They were a large, tough mussel, dreadful to taste. But those who found them felt lucky and hobbled quickly over to the kitchen to boil them in hot water and wolf them.

Our rice that winter contained a white worm about an inch long with a black head. There were dozens in every cup. At first we took them out with our chopsticks.

But in final desperation we closed our eyes and simply ate, thinking there might be protein even in a worm.

Our rice also contained large numbers of small weevils. These were impossible to separate from the grains.

On Feb. 10, 1943, M-Sgt. James Cavanaugh, of headquarters company of the 11th Corps, died as a direct result of starvation, his death hastened by a streptococcus throat infection for which our doctors were not able to receive proper medicines.

A few weeks later Col. Paul D. Bunker, 59th Coast Artillery, U. S. Army, the man who had had the depressing duty of raising the white flag over Corregidor, died for want of drugs which I am sure the Japs possessed in their own hospital.

The Japs saved the cruellest trick of all for the higher-ranking officers during the last days at KARENKO.

Late in March our camp received 17,000 pounds of Red Cross supplies from South Africa. It was a sheer miracle, and as we saw the Godsend come in we knew we were about to be saved from death by a perfect avalanche of canned corned beef, biscuits, cheese, jam, sugar, cocoa, tea and other blessings — including many boxes of shoes.

It was too good to be true... and that was just the case. The Japs told us they would distribute this golden harvest "later."

At the time the frustration was more numbing than any beating we had ever taken. We walked through a dull daze. And then on April 2, 1943, I was rounded up with five major generals, 13 brigadier generals, a Navy captain, 11 enlisted men, the senior British and Dutch officers and the governor general.

And rather dimly I heard the Boston American, No. 12—29 Japs tell me I was leaving KARENKO.

"I wuz thinkin'..."

by IZZY ORT

Today, I reely been thinkin' an' no foolin'. Yesterday, I wasn't my ol' self. Armistice Day! Gosh! I remember the hopes we put into the first one and look wat we got! I'm hopin' the day will have real meanin' fer centuries to come! This day wuz made possible by a lotta lads wat ain't never goin'ta be wid us anymore; many of 'em I knew an' fer their sakes, I'm hopin' Armistice Day will always be wat they wanted it to be! An' Saturday wuz a day of note, too; it wuz the birthday of the Marines. They wuz 176 years old. I met one Marine in my El Tropico Room last week an' he said after 2 years in the Pacific, he felt as old as the Corps itself! Today, the bang-tails ain't gettin' me! Nossir! General Eisenhower is in town an' I'm hustlin' over ta the line of march an' I gotta beer case ta stand on. I ain't missin' nothin'. I never t'ought I'd see him! This is a big thrill in my life! Speakin' of thrills, you kin get plenty of 'em visitin' my swanky El Tropico Room where Ethel Gordon meets an' greets, as she says, an' The Playmates, Frank an' Lucille thumps a guitar an' accordin. Very sweet music, I says an' I bought enuff to know! Fer tropical atmosphere, it's the El Tropico and fer rousin' fun, it's Ort's Grille, 25 Essex St. Adv't.

Gen. Paul Takes Boston's Salute to the Yankee Div.

By AUSTEN LAKE

COMBAT INFANTRYMEN seldom like their generals. To the dog-face generals were remote, austere personages who ranked with the angels and lived in rear security to dream up new miseries for the GI to suffer. Generals were seldom seen, and then strutting in an aura of magnificence. Generals were brass-bound, star-spangled deities who regarded soldiers as so much raw, expendable stocks on their shelves. Or so the combat infantrymen thought!

But Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul was an exception. The men of the YD approved him. I know because I lived with the YD for a spell. Paul ate from the common pot and lived on the common level. He took his risks and hardship and had a fellow-feeling for the lowly powder monkeys. So the YD, still chewing out its soul in a French embarkation depot, will not resent Willard Paul taking their bows in Boston today. He was among our few soldiers' generals.

He Felt Humble!

LAST TIME I SAW GENERAL PAUL was in that upside world of the Saar where the 26th was fighting through mountains like a geographical dumpland where God piled His leftover materials after fashioning the world. The old originals of the YD in World War I never fought through such a wilderness and even the Argonne Forest seems a mere scuffle in the Arnold Arboretum compared with the Saar's jumble of steep drops and dizzy heights where roads were mere goat trails and the high hills were covered with thick pine forests like the scruff on a buffalo's back.

The general lived on a level with his men. I remember him, mud-caked, dust-sooted and hardy, distinguishable from the soldiers who stood outside a captured Siegfried pillbox while waiting development of a small arms battle raging 800 yards up the road. The general had just come from there on foot and now he hunched over a topographical map that was freckled with colored pencil marks. A cigaret hung moistly from his lip, a dead ash on the end.

Around him squatted a company of infantry reserves, worn, dirty bearded, battle-weary men who just sat on their haunches watching "the Ole Man." Their eyes were focused but unseeing. Their ears were inclined toward puzzling undertones, as though trying to decipher visions and messages they scarcely understood.

And Paul had told me, "Sometimes I feel a great humility in the presence of these men and marvel at the tough, stern stuff that has been transformed from raw civilians. The core of American youth is sound. Look at 'em."

They sat in a state of mental anesthesia as though some unseen hand had jabbed them with a spiritual novocaine. They showed no repugnance for the pine-covered bodies of six dead Germans in their midst. The soiled, waxlike hand of one was outstretched like the cupped hand of a beggar. For the Dark Angel was no stranger to these silent soldiers who, as Gen. Paul said, "had the dirtiest job of the war." Which they did! And presently Paul was off again, jeeping gingerly over cowpaths on mountain crests where his GPs looked down on fatigued valleys and where narrow roads ran along shelves grooved into the mountain rims and any sudden skid on the grassy going would cause a non-stop flight 1000 feet below.

Like Asking Suicide!

FOR THE YD WAS ATTACKING laterally through a Siegfried line which, in these topsy-turvy parts, was no line at all. It was a thick sprinkle of craftily hidden concrete bunkers, interlaced to cover important approaches, with interlocked fields of fire. So cunningly were they built into the rugged landscape and so overgrown with natural camouflage that one might walk within yards of their gun slits and never notice.

"Like asking men to commit

Sarno's Road Thorny With H.C. on Horizon

By HERB FINNEGAN

Sad is the lot of BC's Moody Sarno. Here's the Holy Cross game coming up in two weeks, and if one can judge by the scores of BC and HC's two mutual opponents—Brown and Villanova—BC doesn't belong on the same field with the Crusaders.

More, his team came out of the Villanova game beaten physically as badly as they were beaten on the gridiron.

Charley Bennett's leg injury may sideline him for the remaining two games; Steve Helstowski has a bashed nose; Tom Carney was belted so hard he thought BC was winning; Mroz, Nash and Sullivan also are nursing hurts.

Again, a section of the BC alumni are after Sarno's scalp. Several of the younger "old grads" saw the Penn-Columbia game before watching Villanova paste BC at night. They sounded out Aldo "Buff" Donelli on the BC coaching proposition, and reported the former Duquesne coach, now assisting Lou Little at Columbia, as "greatly interested."

They were demanding, too, that the BC-HC 1945 game be called off "before some of our 155-pound backs get killed."

The Villanova game was truly morale-shattering. The BC boys had shown well at Kings Point in every department except pass defense. They confidently expected to whip Villanova. They wanted to do it by a margin as wide as HC had turned the trick (26-7). And they were beaten by 41 points.

So Moody Sarno had cause to be moody today as he contemplated the immediate future. He must bring his boys back psychologically. That will be no easy task because, after the Philly debacle, they themselves were questioning the wisdom of facing undefeated HC.

Yet, there were a few bright spots in the 41-0 lacing. For the first period and most of the second, BC looked the better team. The pass defense was improved. The line (Graham, Twomey, Sammartino, Donelan, King, Giordano, Murphy) was impregnable. In fact, in the third period the line stopped Villanova on the 11, where Villanova had a first down. But immediately the backfield started fumbling, and the line's great work was frustrated.

BC's play calling has been below standard, but that may be corrected because Ed Cronin is on duty again. Cronin quarterbacked BC against Harvard last year and did a good job. But he broke a leg in the second game and was out for the season. He quarterbacked BC vs. Squantum this year, again was hurt in the second game.

If he can direct BC to a decisive win over Scranton at Fenway Park Saturday it would give the team a lift for its meeting with the Crusaders. At any rate, Sarno's informals have done pretty well in their objective games the past two seasons and still may carry a sock.

Perhaps as equipment man Ralph Della Russo said: "It's all part of a plan. HC will begin to feel sorry for us, and then we'll let them have it with both barrels. And maybe I won't clean up on the short end."

Harvard did a grand job against Kings Point and will give Brown a run of it Saturday... Imagine what Conn. State's Walt Trojanowski will do against BU's inexperienced eleven. He scored 24 points against Maine to boost his season's total to 108... Holy Cross can go to the Orange Bowl if it so desires. That's definite... The Sugar Bowl wants Alabama and St. Mary's, but Alabama seems headed for the Rose Bowl.

Bruins Draw Crowds, Miss $ $

By BILL GRIMES

Over the week-end, 89,547 cash customers sat in on six N. H. L. games. On Saturday night, the Bruins and Les Canadiens drew 12,448 to the Montreal Forum, 13,911 watched the Maple Leafs win their first game of the campaign in Toronto and the Detroit-Ranger tilt attracted 13,211, which totaled 41,573. Last night in New York, 15,197 trekked to Madison Square Garden to see the Bruins knock off Rangers, 7 to 1; the Red Wings and Les Canadiens played to 14,234 in Detroit and the Blackhawks and Maple Leafs game was good for 18,543, which, summed up, amounts to 47,974.

The visiting clubs do not get a "cut" of the gates, so the Bruins, although they played before 27,645 in Montreal and New York, didn't receive a penny. And, incidentally, Boston was the only club in the league which didn't play at home over the week-end.

The Bruins returned home today, after winning two out of three road games. They hung a 1 to 3 defeat on the lucky Maple Leafs in Toronto last Wednesday and then, following a 5 to 3 setback Saturday in Montreal, came back and completely outplayed Rangers last night.

Bill Cowley, Woody Dumart and Bill Shill each beat "Sugar" Jim Henry for two goals and the odd marker was scored by "Beppo" Gaudin. Herbie Cain, Milt Schmidt and Don Galt were credited with two assists apiece.

Although a new attendance record for the league was established, the crowd of the Saturday and Sunday games didn't make any change in the standings of the clubs.

The ed Wings were shut out 2 to 0 Saturday by Rangers in New York but they bounced back last night and hung a 4 to 1 defeat on Les Canadiens in Detroit. And, the Blackhawks, after dropping a 3 to 2 decision to the Maple Leafs in Toronto, did an about face and defeated the Daymen 5 to 3 on their home ice. The Chicago victory over Toronto, coupled with the setback Montreal received in Detroit, put the Blackhawks back in first place. The Hawks have won five out of seven, losing only to Toronto and Montreal. The Red Wings moved back into a tie for fourth with the Les Canadiens and the Bruins are in the No. 4 slot, only a point from second place, with the New York Rangers

The Maple Leafs are costing Conn Smythe plenty of sleep. They were touted to sweep through the N. H. L. clubs in the pre-season drop. But, with the exception of a tie with the Bruins and a win over Chicago, the Leafs have been a complete flop this season. Already, they have dropped two decisions to the Blackhawks and one to the other four contenders.

Navy Only Obstacle in Army's Drive for Title

By JACK CONWAY

THE GREAT Army football team that crushed Notre Dame 48 to 0 should go on to win the national college championship by defeating Navy at Philadelphia on Dec. 1. While Navy displayed improved form as it upset Michigan 33 to 7, I do not believe it possesses sufficient finish to down the West Point eleven this writer saw outclass the Irish.

Coach Earl Blaik has a club that works well together. There is not a bit of false temperament on the team that has such brilliant stars as Blanchard, Davis, Stuart, Waterhouse, and Tucker. It is one of those rare combinations of football teams where every man on it is doing his utmost to gain a complete victory.

Glenn Davis

Blanchard and Davis have proved All-America in every respect. Waterhouse, on account of his amazing ability to kick the extra point after touchdown as well as for his general all-round backfield play, would be a mighty handy man to have on any All-America team.

Perhaps the easiest way to pick an All-America team for 1945 would be to simply nominate the entire Army team. In prewar days Notre Dame frequently gained such a distinction from sports writers who felt it was futile to go seeking an all-star team beyond the one coached by Frank Leahy.

Navy also has its share of star players, but it was not until the Michigan game at Baltimore on Saturday that they did what was expected of them. Against Notre Dame the previous week Navy was fortunate to gain a tie to the Notre Dame game stirred up Navy to a point where it went to town as it is capable of doing when it collided with Michigan.

If Navy continues to improve, and indications are that it will do so, Army will not have an easy time winning. This condition will result in a more stirring game, and when the final whistle is blown I feel Army will be out front.

There is a strong feeling at West Point to accept a Rose Bowl bid if one is offered. An unbeaten Army team will make the greatest possible attraction for the Coast classic.

JOHNNY GRECO of Montreal impressed me as being a good puncher as well as an action fighter as he easily outscored Tony Janiro, 17-year-old boxer from Youngstown, Ohio at the New York Garden. Greco's best punch is a left hook to the jaw. This is the blow with which he dropped the baby faced Janiro to the canvas, and almost stopped Tony.

Greco does not go in for fancy boxing. He parades forward every second he is in the ring, and gets great power behind his punches. Greco always mixes up his blows, driving to head and body with equal effect.

Janiro is still quite frail, and he will require a few years to gain enough strength and boxing finish to conquer top boxers. The sellout crowd at the Greco-Janiro bout, which was limited to eight rounds on account of Tony's age, was further proof of the tremendous popularity of boxing. This indicates that when Joe Louis defends his world's championship against Billy Conn next June that the gate receipts will soar past $2,000,000.

Jacobs is still giving much attention to the television rights of the Louis-Conn bout. With television making rapid progress, thousands of people in the New York area will be able to sit in their neighboring moving picture house and watch Louis and Conn as they battle at the Yankee Stadium. Despite the lack of an official announcement, I do not believe there is any doubt but that the Louis-Conn bout will take place in New York.

THE NEW ENGLAND racing season will close at Rockingham Park on Saturday. It is expected that the final six days of racing at Lou Smith's track will be packed with thrills and that they will be witnessed by large crowds.

There will be one day of racing for the Sister Kenney Fund, while there will be three days of racing for New Hampshire charities.

The daily average mutual handle at Rockingham is $872,235, which is a new high for a fall meeting at the New Hampshire track.

Late Fishing for 'Big Ones' Is Urged

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Local anglers, already storing their rods and reels in moth balls until next spring, could heed this advice from George Ruppert, well-known contest. Says he: "The fellow who fishes late and patiently, profits most. This is especially true in Northern waters, where the majority of anglers store their tackle after Labor Day. . . . But it's the fellow that gets out in the cold, blustery days of late fall, who usually catches the big ones."

This statement generally holds true in these parts, but this fall has seen little action for sportsmen, hitting the surf continually. A few weeks ago, Bernard Calitri of Wakefield, R. I., tied into a large striper, while surf-casting from the beach at Charlestown. His prize tipped the beam at 61 pounds, and is the leader in the Ruppert Contest's Striped Bass division. And this is the fourth biggest striper ever landed in the history of the sport!

Better try once again, fishermen! Some of those whoopers are still playing hide-and-seek in the swirling surf; your problem is how to make 'em strike!

CLUB CHATTER: The November meeting of the Hingham Sportsmen's Club is set for tonight, in the G. A. R. Hall, Main St., at 8:00 p. m. Guest speaker will be James F. Power, State Director of Fish and Game. . . . Lew Bryant, head of the Marshfield Game Farm, will also present a short talk on his work in raising the pheasants and quail, which are liberated in that section. . . . After these chats, the meeting will be thrown open to a general question and answer period. . . . President of this club is Sidney Palmer, with William Delano as secretary.

Gildea's Fight For Trade Pupils Fails

By MIKE GILLOOLY

In the midst of all the problems that must follow an undefeated football team, Coach Dennie Gildea, carrying on the fight for the Trade School boys who have been barred from his Class A high school leaders, has popped upon a stickler.

While not pondering ways and means to whip Malden Saturday afternoon, Coach Gildea has a nifty little riddle on his hands. It all goes back to that story of last September when Coach Gildea interceded with Headmaster Martin Sanborn of Everett High to allow two players from the Trade School—Lzy San Philippo, 195-pound tackle, and Art Gennerazzo, 160-pound sophomore guard—to play for the varsity. Both were competing for high school diplomas which San Philippo hopes to gain in the school hall with the rest of the boys on graduation night, next June.

Coach Gildea, through his headmaster, applied to the Headmasters' Ass'n for a clarification. At a meeting Oct. 18, the boys were ruled out after "considerable discussion."

Meanwhile, Coach Gildea continued to sharpen up his pass defense for the tilt with the Golden Tornado. It's known that the Malden club will be tossing bombs for the greater part of this important clash in the hope of smashing across Everett's goal line. But it must be remembered that Everett turned pass interceptions into two touchdowns against English in stealing five off 22 Lynn shots.

The Everett offensive and defensive backfields have been given up. Instead, Coach Gildea will be pushing Howard Huston, an end, into the defensive rib and end Frank Lionetti into the safety position. This allows Art Coggio to stay in the line-up with Tom Supple moving into the end.

Rev. Robert Tobin, S. J., was a sad sack at the Everett game Saturday. . . . his B. C. High team, undefeated and untied, lost half this record against English Friday afternoon. . . . injuries to Jack Casey, Bernie Sullivan and end Dan Lyons hurt the Eagles. . . . but it was a thriller (19-19).

Coach Joe Zapustas is boosting Jack Callahan of Stetson High as the best offensive end of the season. . . . Callahan, a junior, will be very much in the game against Hanover Saturday in the tussle that will decide the Class D championship.

Priest-Eskew Fight Tossup

Al "Red" Priest, Cambridge, and John Henry Eskew, Brockton, come to the cross-roads swinging tonight at Mechanics Building in the 10-round feature of an Andy Caliban, A. C. boxing tournament.

Priest, more than three years with Uncle Sam's Navy, and Eskew, who spent four years in the Merchant Marine and made 26 trips around the globe, are two of the most promising middleweights in the U. S. One or the other will have to be detoured from the title this p. m., unless the bout ends in a draw.

This could happen here. The Priest-Eskew battle is a toss-up with the wagers who are giving 6-5 and take your pick.

Eskew, who has had seven fights since his discharge from the Marines and won all seven by knockouts, would seem to have a slight edge on Priest in the matter of removing ring rust. Priest has had four bouts since graduation from the Navy, registering a resounding kayo win in five rounds over Fred Cabral in his last.

Eskew's kayo victims, seven in a row, were Jimmy Mulligan, Sam Shumway, Waddell Washington, John Harwood, Charlie McPherson, Bill Johnston and Roger Bisson, a Canadian lumberjack who was reputed to have a cement chin. Eskew hit him early with his black-out punch and Bisson was flattened in 36 seconds flat.

A supporting card is featured by the return of Florian Desmarais, Manchester, N. H., who meets Johnny Priest, Al's kid brother, in the 8-round semi-final. Desmarais won the North Africa and Inter-Allied 135-pound championship in a service tournament at Algiers in February, 1944. Jack Sharkey, a USO tour at the time, refereed the finals and declared Desmarais, along with Marcel Cerdan, France, the best performers in the tourney.
